Update on CORDA agreement

Why are we doing this?

Enabling access to members' data and expertise

Facilitating access to high-value geospatial datasets

Connecting users
to official national geospatial information

- Make the relationship between Copernicus In-Situ and our members more straightforward
- Enable better access to members data
- Include more member's data to Copernicus services to provide you with authoritative data
- Support our strategic partner - EEA

Update on CORDA agreement

Connecting users
to official national
geospatial information

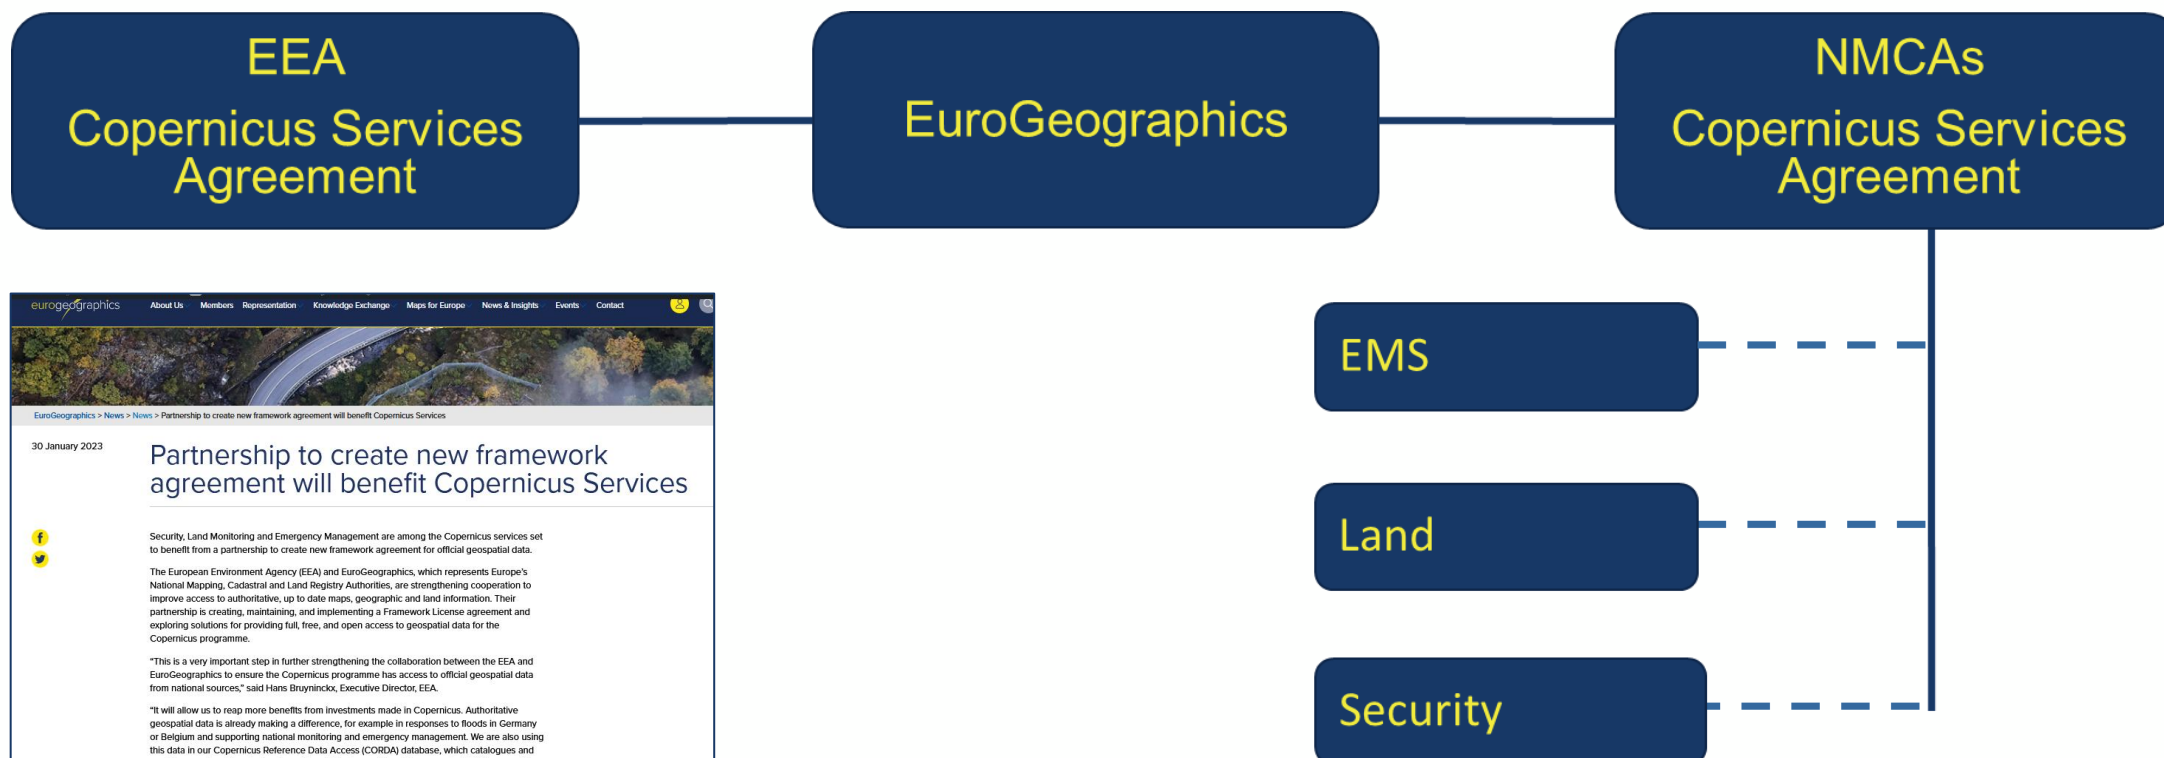

- Licensing more national data
- Sharing knowledge from our work
- Continued engagement with NMCAs
- Creation of Guidance Material for NMCAs
- Communications about our work

Licensing

The importance of licensing your data to Copernicus Services

- Without in-situ data, the Copernicus Programme simply cannot deliver its data, products and services
- Access to your official data helps meet end user requirements regarding content and quality
- The process developed enables better access to members data and allows for more members data to be included to the Copernicus Services
- Ensure that the three services are using official data and not unofficial sources where applicable
- It also allows for increased data delivery from EuroGeographics members in the future
- Ensuring that National Mapping, Cadastral and Land Registration Authorities are recognised for their essential contributions to Copernicus

Licensing Framework

Signed Agreements

27 members have signed the Copernicus Services Framework agreement; 17 revised annexed signed, total 27

23 members have signed the Land Monitoring Annex

23 additional members have signed the Security Services Annex

Technical contacts

- Once the legal permissions are agreed we need to confirm the technical access
- We need to confirm a technical contact for CORDA to engage with
- We do this by confirming the contact with you

Open data

- Many of your organisations now have open data and so don't want to sign agreement
- When Oliwia contacts your organisation:
 - Please confirm to us that the data is open
 - If there is a specific link to your GeoPortal please confirm this so we can inform CORDA
 - We still need a technical contact please
 - This should not be an info@... or contact@... email address if possible
